Report on the 72nd IIPF Congress in Lake Tahoe, Nevada, USA

The 72nd Annual Congress of the International Institute of Public Finance was hosted by the Department of Economics and the College of Business at the University of Nevada, Reno between 9 and 11 August, 2016 (with IIPF Board meeting and dinner taking place on 8 August). More than 360 delegates from 40 countries attended the Congress with about half of the attendees coming from Europe, a third from North America and the rest from other countries in Asia, South America, and Africa.

The theme of the congress, Entrepreneurship, Innovation and Public Policy, was highlighted by four plenary speakers: Roger Gordon (“How Should Taxes be Designed to Encourage Entrepreneurship?”), Robert Fairlie (“Government Training, Affirmative Action, and Entrepreneurship”), Dietmar Harhoff (“Innovation and Taxation”), and Hal Varian (“Google Tools for Data”).

The main body of the Congress consisted of 280 contributed papers (out of 401 submissions), covering all topics within public economics. There were six working groups with up to 13 parallel sessions in each group. In total, 76 working group sessions were organised. The papers are available (until December 2016) on the website https://www.conftool.pro/iipf2016/sessions.php; the final program (updated print version, with abstracts) is available at http://www.iipf.org/cng.htm. The Scientific Chairs continued an innovation of last year’s Congress and included invited papers which were solicited by and organized into sessions by members of the scientific committee. As usual, a selection of contributed papers and plenary presentations will appear in a special issue of International Tax and Public Finance in 2017. The Scientific Committee was chaired by Katherine Cuff (McMaster University, Canada) and Alfons Weichenrieder (Goethe University Frankfurt, Germany). Its members are listed below.

The 2016 Peggy and Richard Musgrave Prize for the best paper contributed by authors under the age of 40 was awarded to Alisa Tazhitdinova (University of California at Berkeley, USA, at the time of submission; now McMaster University, Canada) for her paper “Adjust Me if I Can’t: The Effect of Firm Incentives on Labor Supply Responses to Taxes”. The IIPF gave two Young Economists Awards at this Congress 2016: to Eric Ohrn (Grinnell College, USA) for his paper “Investment and Employment Responses to State Adoption of Federal Accelerated Depreciation Policies” and to Pierre Bachas (University of California at Berkeley, USA, at the time of submission; now World Bank and currently doing a post-doc at Princeton University, USA; presenting author) and Mauricio Soto (Banco Central de Costa Rica) for their paper “Not(ch) Your Average Tax System: Corporate Taxation Under Weak Enforcement”. Eighty of the papers presented at the Congress applied for these awards.

The Local Organizing Committee was chaired by Mehmet Tosun and included other faculty and staff from the University of Nevada, Reno: Frank Fossen, Sonja Pippin, Robert A. Miller, and Theresa Moser as well as UNR’s Extended Studies Program staff. The welcome reception on the first congress day was held at Edgewood Tahoe on the Lake Tahoe shore. The second congress day was highlighted by a Dinner cruise with live entertainment on Lake Tahoe. The third and the last congress day was concluded by a Conference Dinner in the Harrah’s ballroom and with entertainment from a Native American dance group. The social program makes the IIPF congresses special, giving the participants an excellent opportunity to meet colleagues and chat in an informal atmosphere, and to strengthen relations between IIPF members.

We would like to thank the following donors for their generous support of the Congress: the Department of Economics and the College of Business at the University of Nevada, Reno; the Ewing Marion Kauffman Foundation; the Burch Center for Tax Policy and Public Finance at the University of California, Berkeley; the Ozmen Foundation on behalf of Sierra Nevada Corporation; the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco; the Andrew Young School of Policy Studies at Georgia State University; the Murphy Institute at Tulane University; the Boyd Center for Business and Economic Research at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville; Michigan State University; and the Ozmen Center for Entrepreneurship at the University of Nevada, Reno. The local organizer would also like to thank Barbara Smith Campbell and the Donald W. Reynolds Foundation for their support of the Department of Economics at the University of Nevada, Reno.

In addition, we thank the Deutsche Gesellschaft für Internationale Zusammenarbeit (GIZ) GmbH for their continuing support. In particular, this year the GIZ continued to organize a Master Class in which 13 researchers from Africa presented their research to senior academics and then got one-on-one feedback. The GIZ Master Class took place on 8 August at the University of Nevada, Reno. The program is available at http://www.iipf.org/cng.htm.

Finally, we would like to express our deep appreciation to Shera Alberti-Annunzio and the UNR Extended Studies team who took care of all administrative matters and support of participants.
